

Join the Salmon Protection and Watershed Network for our exciting

Winter Salmon Seminar Series!

Please join us in welcoming our 2nd guest speaker on Thursday, January 5th at 7:00pm in Point Reyes Station.

Brannon Ketcham, Hydrologist for Pt. Reyes National Seashore, will present a slide show about regional trends affecting Coastal Marin salmon populations. There will be much discussion about spawning winter salmon, and about how many of our juvenile coho salmon and steelhead survive to migrate out into the Pacific Ocean to feed and then return as spawners.

Bring your questions about all matters salmonid!

WHEN: Thursday, January 5, 2006 7 PM - 8:30 PM

WHERE: Church Space,
Dance Palace Community
Center, 503 B Street,
Point Reyes Station

FREE. Donations are welcome. These events are wheelchair accessible

Brannon began his work at Point Reyes in 1996. He completed his BA in Geology from Pomona College, and has a Masters in Environmental Management from Duke University. He is the Water Resources Branch Chief overseeing monitoring, management and restoration of fisheries, water quality, wetlands and watershed planning programs.